Carquinez Bridge Dismantling Featured on National Geographic Channel

(Boulder, Colo.) November 1, 2007 – The Carquinez Bridge Dismantling Project will be featured in the television program Break it Down: Bridge on the National Geographic Channel. The program is set to premier on November 1, 2007. Foothills Bridge Co engineered the dismantling scheme for the project and the company's engineers will be highlighted in the program.

J Coleman, President of Foothills Bridge Co, said, "Everyone on our staff worked hard to assist the contractor in making this a successful project and we are proud to have that effort featured on the television program."

The program is expected to air several more times. Check listings at channel.nationalgeographic.com.
